Importance of implementation

The labour market places higher demands on employee's competence

Certificate from high school important for employment

Students with various learning difficulties with language, reading, writing and mathematics, are at bigger risk of dropping out of school

It is important to ensure quality methods for teachers working with the target group to prevent early school leavers

Testing difficulties

Because of the ongoing pandemic, it has been challenging for the teachers and trainers to test the material in IO₂ and IO₃

Much of the testing have not been taken place in an actual classroom

Not all methods have been tested with different age groups

The materials could have been stronger if further testing was allowed

Next step

Preliminary testing shows a lot of potential in the material, but it is necessary to do more testing and possible some adjustments to the materials

It is necessary to do more testing with teachers and students in an actual school setting

Testing must be done in a wider spectre of age groups and different teachers

After more and thorough testing, the material should be evaluated and changes should be done, then more testing is required before the material is released for full scale usage

Implementation in school system

The material should be adapted to all age groups

All the material could be easily accessible through already established platforms in each country

Required to have more examples and concrete tasks the teachers can use in the classroom

Both IO₂ and IO₃ can be part of training courses offered to schools and teachers during the school year
